COURSE DESCRIPTION	Participants will gain information and materials to train state, local, and tribal managers in the development and implementation of COOP plans in their regions as part of catastrophic event preparedness. The major goal of this course is to use the successful COOP planning model employed throughout Maryland, along with other best practices, as the foundation for teaching key state, local, and tribal emergency management officials nationwide to train governmental institutions within their jurisdictions to write effective COOP plans that support the National Response Framework (NRF) and ensure that essential governmental functions, programs, services, systems, and personnel continue to operate during and after a disabling natural disaster or terrorist attack. This course incorporates a discussion-based exercise that engages the participants in a hands-on learning experience. This is an invaluable instructional tool that draws on the relative backgrounds of the participants to create a dynamic environment in which they must apply the principles of the course to a set of decisions that are likely to occur in a COOP activation scenario.
